Gold: Emily Feed System

This new free app has been developed to simplify daily livestock ration calculations. The operator selects the required ration and indicates the number of animals, then the application calculates quantities.

It can be used with a wide range of mixing and feeding equipment. Users can register up to 20 different rations with 30 ingredients.

Judges' comments:

This app offers many potential benefits, including time saving, accurate nutrition and the fact it can be used with existing systems. It is very adaptable in calculating quantities distributed and is very user friendly.
